

And You Wonder Why It Didn't Last

by Steve Higginbotham

The following comments were sent to me a few weeks ago without an author's name. I think the contrasts make a good point...Give it some thought.

She married him because he was such a "strong man"
She divorced him because he was such a "dominating male."

He married her because she was so "fragile and petite."
He divorced her because she was so "weak and helpless."

She married him because "he knows how to provide a good living."
She divorced him because "all he thinks about is business."

He married her because "she reminds me of my mother."
He divorced her because "she's getting more like her mother every day."

She married him because he was "happy and romantic."
She divorced him because he was "shiftless and fun-loving."

He married her because she was "steady and sensible."
He divorced her because she was "boring and dull."

...And if I might add one to the list...

They married each other because they both loved God supremely

And they never did divorce.

The key to a successful marriage is not only about falling in love with the right person but also falling in love with God.
